

Baby Posting Pots

Product Code: EY04128

We were asked to make this resource as the nursery wanted separate pots for individual shapes, rather than a container with lots of openings.

Let the toddler/baby explore the pots and the shapes. You may choose to give them just one container initially and let them investigate. They may just want to pick up the shapes and later on choose to post them. As they become more aware of how to pick up the shapes and carefully place them in the right position you may wish to add another pot. The children can then see which shapes fit which container. This requires a lot of insight and the ability to work things out, so it is a gradual process. Slowly the child will make vital connections and can have the pots together and will be able to sort the shapes into the respective receptacles.
