

Baby Wooden Sorting Collection

Product Code: EY10642

A beautiful collection of wooden spools and spheres inside a wooden tray. These are ideal for supporting specific schematic behaviours. They are a lovely discovery resource for fostering curiosity and hand-eye coordination. Let the children enjoy looking at the resource and investigating freely. They will make their own discoveries and vital connections. Perhaps they will find out some of the shapes, stack, roll etc. Perhaps they will enjoy placing the shapes in the spaces. They may also like too...

- Children may love to place the spools in their corresponding, colour coded place on the board.
- They are a great addition to construction. Children can use the spools for building with. They can carefully stack them. This may help foster a sense of achievement.
- With this multi-coloured collection children will be developing their sorting abilities and begin looking at simple similarities and differences.
- Some children will love to roll the multi-coloured balls around. Join in with the child and roll them backwards and forwards together.
- With older children you could use these alongside a matching activity.
- Put these alongside other construction materials in the baby room, you could use the Wooden Block Builder (EY10641) for the children to create imaginative landscapes and structures. They may create a zoo structure or a superhero den, make sure you have lots of resources for them to extend their play.
