

How to make... Chinese Dragon's Head

2 Highlight features and detail...

2

Highlight features and detail using beautiful Decopatch patterned papers. (See 'How to' for paper technique.)

1

Paint the head with a couple of layers of white acrylic paint or Gesso. This will make the other acrylic colours or Decopatch paper you use to decorate the head much brighter. Paint chosen areas with acrylic paint to add detail and colour eg. Eyes, mouth, horns etc

1 Paint the head white...

3 Use a selection of collage...

3

Use a selection of collage materials eg. feathers, sequins, glitter glue and dazzle dots to finish off!

1 Chinese Dragon's Head

Celebrate Chinese New Year in style and bring a little good luck into the classroom whilst making your own colourful Chinese Dragon's Head using our strong papier mache sculpture. Engage children's imagination and encourage children to work together painting and decorating it using acrylic paint, patterned papers and colourful collage materials. Create a dramatic talking point, display piece (or under supervision) even your own Chinese Dragons dance! Size: H23 x L40 x W32cm. See our time saving set to help make the rest of the costume!

How to make... Chinese Dragon's Costume

1

Decide the length...

2

Choose a colour of holographic foil to make the scalloped 'spine' of the costume, fold over and over it into a 'concertina' to help cut a uniform scalloped shape. Cut a length for each side of the costume. Use double sided tape (or staples) to attach the holographic foil 'spine'.

2

Choose a colour...

3

Make the spiked ridges...

3

Make the spiked ridges along the back using the self-adhesive foil. For each spike use the grid on the back as a size guide and cut 2 rectangles the same size (I used 8 squares). Cut both to a 'V' shape on the lower half, peel off the backing and stick halfway down one side of the scalloped spine. Stick the other on top to match. Cut the top half into a 'spike'. Repeat process down the spine.

4

Add extra colour and texture...

4

Cut scales from holographic self-adhesive foil and stick randomly over the 'body'. Add extra colour and texture by sticking feathers and sequins along the edge of the costume.

1 Decide the length you want the body to be and cut the gold foil to size. Fold the foil in two. This creates the main 'body' of the costume.

1 Chinese Dragon Costume Set
